Freud has the three level of mind lets describe the most useful but not well defined part of it. The unconscious mind; as a reservoir of urges, thoughts, feelings, and memories that conscious awareness outside.

The theory outcomes are briefly described below

The reason why the BEHAVIORS of people we know very well in normal life, especially when they take managerial positions in workplaces, change is the way the logic explained by Freud is applied to behavior. Freud attributes this situation to harming other people with the emergence of traumas in the childhood of the person who has that behavior. Despite the fact that the Kovit epidemic kills more than one person in the human population every day, the biggest reason why people continue their daily lives lies in the emergence of the unconscious thought from the daily impulses. Wishing you a good relations to your children and with your childhood. And take care of the people who have "neurotic personality disorder". When they talk to people, if they think they are wrong, their hands and faces tremble. Others are curious about people's private lives and constantly risk their careers to investigate the private lives of especially talented people. I found a proverb for them. "The grasshopper jumps the first time, jumps the second time, gets caught the third time". Furthermore, reaching the e-mail correspondence of the talented and praised person by the corporate wireless internet to whatsapp correspondence.
