When the author received an invitation from the journal to write about mucormycosis, she replied and said that she would write something that still not published yet about this subject, that all medical doctors needs to know.

In some studies presented by the author, one of them introduced in Global Experts Meeting on Infectious Diseases, Diabetes and Endocrinology, on February 2019, in Tokyo, Japan, the author comprehends that the fungus infection is only when the terrain is favorable for the fungus growth. She understands that infected patients with mucormycosis occur only if the environment is adequate for it is growth [1].

According to the article Mucormycosis, written by Hernandez and Buckley (2020), this is a fungal infection (that it is from zygomycete family) that can cause different and various types of infection. In the majority of cases, there are predisposition factors that is inducing the beginning of this type of infection that normally do not occur in immunocompetent individual [2].

But in immunocompromised patients, it can be a very difficult opportunistic infection to be treated. It can be presented by several forms of infection characterized by the symptoms in encephalic, gastro-intestinal, cutaneous, pulmonary, rhino cerebral, etc... [2].

It is clinical presentation is characterized by necrosis of the tissue due to Blood thrombosis and invasion of blood vessels [2].

According to Hernandez and Buckley (2020), the main treatment of this infection is an aggressive and early surgical debridement and the use of high doses for antifungal medication to control the spread of this infection [2].

In the article written by Skiada et al. (2020), entitled Epidemiology and Diagnosis of Mucormycosis: An Update, they are saying that the incidence in India is 80 times more than in first countries and the population that is more high risks to develop is diabetes, hematological malignancies and transplantation, post-pulmonary tuberculosis, chronic kidney diseases, autoimmune diseases [3].

In the article written by Singh et al. (2021), in an article entitled Mucormycosis in COVID-19: A systematic review of cases reported worldwide and in India, they are saying that it is increasing the cases reports of mucormycosis in COVID-19 patients [4].

The author being an infectious diseases specialist since 1995, graduated in medicine in the Londrina State University in Brazil, had an opportunity to learn another types of ancient medical practices after her specialization and began to study traditional Chinese medicine that is one of the oldest medical systems that exists until now [5].

According to Hippocrates, we need to consider other ancient medical traditions, prior to the knowledge we have nowadays, for this reason, she always sees both types of reasoning in the treatment of all kinds of diseases. This kind of reasoning began in 2006, when she treated a patient with leg pain that was not improving with the use of anti-inflammatory medications. After the treatment he received from the author, he improved from his intra-ocular pressure that the doctor was not aware that he had glaucoma when she began the treatment. And for this reason, this case was the cornerstone of all her treatments today, as she can treat all kinds of diseases such as infectious and non-infectious diseases only using this kind of reasoning (treating the root and not just the symptoms) [6].

As she began treat all the patient's symptoms and diseases using this reasoning, including patients with nosocomial and community infections with great success, she will write some lines in this article to the physician to understand what all patients that have mucormycosis nowadays have in common [7].

In a study presented by the author in the Global Experts Meeting on Infectious Diseases, Diabetes and Endocrinology, that was held in February 27-28, 2019 Tokyo, Japan, entitled Why Do Patients With Vaginal Fungal Infection Continue To Have Symptoms Despite The Use Of Antifungal Medication?, the author explained by two cases reports that patients with vaginal candida do not improve their symptoms of fungus infections due to the high humidity in their body, leading to the fungus growth in the vagina [1].

After changing dietary habit of both patients, taking out all dairy products, raw foods, cold water and sweets, and rebalancing the internal energy using auricular acupuncture with apex ear blood-letting, and replenishing the chakras' energy centers with highly diluted medications such as homeopathies according to the theory created by the author (2020) entitled Constitutional Homeopathy of the Five Elements Based on Tradition al Chinese Medicine, the patient were able to improve from their condition without needing to use anti-fungal medication topically and systemically [8].

As fungus appears on the wall when it normally appears, we do not throw anti-fungal medication on the wall, but we called a brick-layer to assess where the invasion of moisture in the wall comes from [9].

Just patients with mucormycosis had immune system altered, that is why they are happening in COVID 19 patients and in patients with diabetes history. In the article published by the author entitled Energy Alterations and Chakras' Energy Deficiencies and Propensity to SARS-CoV-2 Infection, the author demonstrated that patients with COVID-19 and also with diabetes have chakras' energy centers deficiency in energy. This result is not only in patients with diabetes or COVID-19, but in all kinds of persons nowadays, independently of the diagnosis and age (could be child and older people, quite all patients are in the same level of energy imbalances meaning that the majority of the population nowadays are considered immune deficient in energy and not immune competent). This last paragraph the author showed in the article Are We Vaccinating Immunocompetent or Immunocompromised People for COVID 19? [9,10].

The author usually makes a comparison between the different point of view between Western and traditional Chinese medicine and in all Western diagnosis, they are looking and treating at the leaf level of the tree (as demonstrated in many articles of the author through a tree like figure that Western medicine treats the leaf of the tree but traditional Chinese medicine understands that all the problems are in the root and the symptoms presented in the leaf level is only are only manifestations that there are imbalances in the root that is causing the symptoms in the leaf). The physician needs to understand that the influences of the external pathogenic factors can influence our health, mainly in inducing the formation of diseases in the upper respiratory system leading to infectious and non infectious symptoms [7,11,12].

In the case of mucormycosis, this infection is only a symptom but its real cause is at the root of the tree, where the energy imbalances and deficiencies are leading to the infectious symptoms at the leaf level of the tree is present [7,11,12].

The patient that has COVID-19 nowadays, also have chakras' energy centers deficient in energy like diabetes patients, demonstrated in the articles written by the author (2019,2021) entitled Why Are Diabetic Patients Still Having Hyperglycemia despite Diet Regulation, Antiglycemic Medication and Insulin? and in the second article entitled Chakras' Energy Deficiencies and Propensity to SARS-CoV-2 Infection [9,13].

But what the author wants to say in this article is that, not only patients with COVID 19 or diabetes have more propensity to have mucormycosis nowadays but all kinds of patients with common diagnosis such as anxiety, depression, panic syndrome, headache, knee pain, low back pain, etc. because the author is showing that more than 90% of the population she is attending in Brazil has no energy in the chakras' energy centers and this means that quite all of them are considered immunosuppressed and not immune competent as the authors showed in the article Huang (2021) wrote entitled Are We Vaccinating Immunocompetent or Immunocompromised People for COVID 19? [9,10].

As you can see, what all chronic disease have in common are chakras' energy centers deficient in energy and this situation can be explained by the interference of electromagnetic waves in our lives, as demonstrated in article written by Huang (2021) entitled Energy Alterations and Chakras' Energy Deficiencies and Propensity to SARS-CoV-2 Infection [9].

According to Hippocrates, we must treat the patient and not the disease. If the physician only treats the leaf level of the tree, that is the infection and it is not aware that the patient is deficient in energy, the use of medications recommended nowadays to treat the patients are harming even more the vital energy of the patients, leading to complications or even death, as the author demonstrated in written by Huang (2021) Is the Medication used in Intubation of Patients with Covid-19 Affecting the Outcome of the Patient's Treatment? and in the second article written by Huang (2021) entitled Why Medications Used Nowadays are Harmful to Our Health? [6,14].

The author has published articles regarding the treatment of infectious diseases, for example in the treatment of hospital and community infections without using antibiotics, and she is demonstrating in all this articles that what patients have in common (in community and hospital infection) is that they have energy deficiencies and formation of internal Heat, leading to the infectious symptoms manifestations, as the author demonstrated in the article What have behind in all kinds of infections that we need to know? [5,7,15].

According to the teachings in traditional Chinese medicine, the symptoms of infection are only manifestations of energy deficiencies in the root level leading to formation of internal Heat and also, the influences of the external pathogenic factor that Western medicine do not take in consideration when preventive measurements is done and also, in the treatment. If we do not understand their influences, we cannot advice our patients what they need to do to avoid the formation of that disease. It will be very difficult for the physician to orientate the patients adequately if he does not understand in the deepest level, where the disease comes from [7,11,12,16].

All this reasoning began in 2006, when the author attended an afro-descendent patient in her clinic in Brazil. He was complaining of pain in the legs for 6 months with no improvement with the use of anti-inflammatory medications. The author did his diagnosis in traditional Chinese medicine (Kidney Yang deficiency) and began his treatment only balancing his energy using Chinese dietary counseling, auricular acupuncture with apex ear bloodletting and systemic acupuncture. He did an improvement of his leg pain but also, his intraocular pressure reduced for the first time of his life (he was treating for glaucoma for 40 years with no improvement only using eye drops). What the author wants to emphasize in this case is that she was not aware of the glaucoma condition in the beginning of his treatment, but the treatment of the root, leads to the improvement of all his problems at the same time [11,13,17].

Therefore, for the treatment of the mucormycosis patient, this infection usually affects people who are immunosuppressed, mainly in diabetes patients, as demonstrated in the article written by Skiada., et al. (2020) entitled Epidemiology and Diagnosis of Mucormycosis: An Update [3].

As the author said previously, the majority of the population in this world could be classified as immunedepressant nowadays due to energy deficiency in the chakras' energy centers and in her point of view, not only patients with diabetes or COVID- 19 diagnosis but all patients nowadays can have this kind of infection. What could aggravate this immunosuppression state is the use of more highly concentrated medications to treat any condition, the use of any metallic pin or implant inside the body that could aggravate the weak energy state [10,18].

Patients that have history of drinking raw milk, eating many raw foods, sweets and drink cold water have more propensity to have this lack of energy because all these foods could aggravate the absorption of nutrients from the Spleen and pancreas meridian, that is where the energy from the foods can go inside the body [9,11,13].

Another food that it is necessary to remove is the ingestion of mate tea, soda and coffee. This drinks can induce the energy deficiency in the second chakra or Kidney meridian responsible for the production of Yin and Yang energy, necessary to maintain health of the patient, as the author demonstrated in the article Why Are Diabetic Patients Still Having Hyperglycemia despite Diet Regulation, Antiglycemic Medication and Insulin? [13].

The third group of foods that is important to avoid is chocolate, fried foods, eggs, honey, coconut, alcoholic beverages, melted cheese, because all this foods can generate more internal Heat inside the body, leading to the symptoms of hyperemia and yellow secretion and that is why, using this method to balance the internal energy, we will also control diabetes and improve the absorption of nutrients that is compromised at the moment of the infection [11,13].

The second step the author usually does in all this infection is apex ear bloodletting; to reduce the internal Heat that is producing the hyperglycemia and infections symptoms. As this procedure is not done by all medical doctors, they could use homeopathy medications to take out this Heat inside the body of the patient [8].

But as the energy of the patients' is very compromised, sometimes it is not enough to treat the patient's condition only doing these measurements. It is important to replenish the energy in the chakras' energy centers using homeopathies medications according to the theory Constitutional Homeopathy of the Five Elements based on Traditional Chinese Medicine. This theory was created by the author when she began to study homeopathy in Brazil in 2015 and was published in 2020. She is linking the teachings to Hahnemann (that exists for about 242 years) with traditional Chinese medicine that exists for more than 5.000 years. The author thinks that if Hahnemann could have the opportunity in his life to study traditional Chinese medicine, he would explain all the reasoning's behind the mechanism of action of homeopathy medications that is not understood until today by the majority of physicians that works with this kind of treatment. But according to Hippocrates, life is short and there is a need for continuous learning and updating life-long. With time, Hippocrates said that we will realize that no matter how much we learn there remains more to be discovered. The phrase wrote by Franz Ingelfinger said that "superior doctors or scientists are always aware how little they know." and this awareness should protect them from the ignorance arrogance [6,8].

Antifungal treatment may be indicated in these patients but as these antifungals are highly concentrated medication, they can further lower the vital energy that is already low in all these patients and could worsen the evolution of these patients [8].

What the author would suggest in this case is the association of antifungal but supporting the energy replacement of the five internal massive organs to provide energy support for the patient who is very serious in this situation, to be able to withstand the treatment, which is very aggressive. Giving this support, the patient would be better able to carry out the treatment, that if alone, perhaps the medication itself could produce major side effects that if it does not have an energetic support, it could die. The author suggests associating support with homeopathic medicine, according to the created by her (2020) entitled Constitutional Homeopathy of the Five Elements based on Traditional Chinese Medicine for a period of one year or more as there is a delay in the replenishment of the chakras (or the five massive internal organs) and thus, it would also give conditions to improve other underlying pathologies such as diabetes and the causes that led to COVID-19 (lack of immunity) and also give energy to not have so many side effects by the end of the treatment such as renal and respiratory failure, thrombosis, etc... [8,9,13].

In the article written by the author (2021) entitled Is the Population in the World the Same as in the Past? the author states that the population we have today since 2015 has presented an energy frequency pattern different from the population profile that we had before 2015, where the majority of the patients had energy in the five massive organs, on less than others but usually they have energy. Many different that the situation that we are facing today, that all organs are in the lowest level of energy, characterizing this situation as immunosuppression demonstrated in the article Are We Vaccinating Immunocompetent or Immunocompromised People for COVID 19? This could be one reason why mucormycosis is rising nowadays as shown in the article written by Waness (2009) entitled The Rise of an Opportunistic Infection called "Invasive Zygomycosis" [10,19,20].

Drugs indicated in the past for the treatment of various diseases must be evaluated by professionals currently in all educational institutions in the world for drugs recommended in the past are no longer drugs indicated for this current population or need to be prescribed with caution by the professional because these drugs (highly concentrated medications) are causing a greater reduction in the vital energy of patients and may take to a lot of formation of many other diseases or perhaps the patient's death. That is why the author is orientating to take more precautions in prescribing the antifungal and other highly concentrated medications nowadays due to this new pattern of energy presented by the patients because they could die due to the use of medication and not due to the infection itself as showed in the article written by the author Is the Medication used in Intubation of Patients with Covid-19 Affecting the Outcome of the Patient's Treatment? [14].

Another aggravating factor for the worsening of the background in the COVID-19 patient's logic is the use of many antibiotics to treat the virus. We know that antibiotics are medicines to treat bacteria, so the use of antibiotics to treat the virus in this situation may generate more side effects and without any benefit to the patient, and can induce death of the patients, according to Arndt Shultz Law [9,14,21].

In the article written by Miranda, et al. (2020) entitled Implications of antibiotics use during the COVID-19 pandemic: present and future, the authors are saying about the excessive use of antibiotics worldwide in this pandemic in a few months could be leading to antibiotics resistance and other implications in humans and in animals' health and in our environment [22].

During treatment, patients who use many highly concentrated medications should try to reduce the use of these drugs in order to intake more highly diluted medication so that the state of the energy of the patient does not worsen, aggravating the situation in the infectious condition. This model of medicine is showed in the article written by Rossi (2020) entitled The Experience of an Italian Public Homeopathy Clinic during the COVID-19 Epidemic, March-May 20 [23].

The understanding of the body and how the formation of diseases works at the energy level up to the disease itself is of paramount importance for understanding the formation of diseases from the beginning and considering the emotional reactions influenced by climatic factors and external pathogenic factors like Cold or Heat, as the author showed in the article she wrote (2021) entitled What Have Behind in All Kinds of Infections that We Need to Know? [15].

According to Albert Einstein (1879 -1955), We cannot solve our problems with the same thinking we used when we created them [24].
