Introduction

When I was invited by this emergency medical journal to write an article, I was wondering what would be a general theme for all specialties and situations that a doctor has to know today, which does not appear in laboratory tests.

In the publication carried out by the Global college, according to them, the most frequent pathologies in an emergency room are: toothache, cutting wounds, sprains, low back pain, urinary tract infection, headache, kidney stones, abscesses, and infection superficial skin, upper airway infection, abdominal pain [1].

According to the study written by myself (2021), whose title is the Population in the World the Same as in the Past?, I am saying that the population that we have nowadays is not the same as in the past due to alterations in the energy level, that are invisible to the naked eyes [2].

This was proven in a study carried out by myself (2021), during a period of five years, between 2015 to 2020, in which I studied the energy of the five internal organs (which are the Heart, Spleen, Lung, Kidney, and Liver) by measuring energy through a crystal pendulum called radiesthesia where I concluded in this study that most of these people (90%) are with very low energy and the reflection of this comes from exposure to electromagnetic waves that almost all the population of our planet is being exposed to [4].

To understand the consequences of this energy lowering in the five massive internal organs, I would like to say that each organ is responsible for the production of certain energy within our body to maintain our health, which are the Yin, Yang, Qi, and Blood energies, according to traditional Chinese medicine's reasoning and the treatment rebalancing and replenishing all these organs were important to achieve health and the imbalances of all these energies can induce the formation of some disease in the "leaf level" as a metaphor that I usually use to compare the different levels of diagnosis and treatment of Western and Traditional Chinese Medicine (that treats the root and not only the symptoms, represented by the leaves in this metaphor) [3].

Vital energy is what the Chinese call Qi and Ayurvedic medicine call it prana. Its presence is fundamental for all the processes for the maintenance of our life, for breathing, heartbeat, for us to see, hear, taste, smell, for the Blood to flow inside the blood vessels, etc. [6].

And this whole process is carried out in the first moment at the energy level, because everything that exists in the universe is made of energy, including the human being. This statement was made by the most famous scientists of physics such as Albert Einstein (1879-1955) and others like Capra (1978) who wrote the book The Tao da Physics in which this author makes a comparison of the different points of view of the two medicines, Western and Chinese, showing the different aspects of the same thing, which are the human being [6,7].

In the process of the history of medicine, if we evaluate all the types of medicine that there was in the past and analyze the type of medicine that we are practicing today, we realize that nowadays, we are practically focusing on treating the patient's symptoms and almost the patient can never be cured of his chronic pathology anymore and must use his medicines daily, but "never" is cured of his pathology, such as diabetes, high blood pressure, glaucoma, heart failure, etc. [5,6,8].

This is due to the changes made in the past in the medical curriculum, in which medicine considers only scientific what it can see with the naked eye and all the energy that comes before it materializes, was forgotten and banned from the curriculum of faculties of medicine in North America and Canada, with the implementation of the Flexner report in 1910, which had the Rockefeller and Carnegie Foundation as sponsors [9].

With these changes in the medical curriculum, many schools that taught the doctor how to treat the patient from a holistic point of view had to be closed and only 20 percent managed to survive [9].

However, the reflection of these changes made in the past are reflected today in the type of medicine and the type of doctor that medical schools are training every year in almost all countries, including China itself, which was the cradle of the civilization of medicine, also adopted this new way of thinking, where only the manifestations at the "leaf of the tree" level are treated, however, the imbalances at the level of the "root of the tree" are unknown and it is these factors, which are largely affected in our patients, which modern medicine is not doing the diagnosis and, therefore, does not undergo treatment [3,4].

This way of explaining diagnosis and treatment at the "leaf" and "root" levels was created by me to demonstrate the different levels of diagnosis and treatment that different medicines have performed today [10].

Therefore, in this article, I am in a simple way, wanting to alert doctors, that when a patient arrives these days, with any type of symptom in an emergency unit, we must know that his symptom is at the "leaf" level but the real cause of the symptom is at the root level, which as I showed in a study entitled Energy Alterations and Chakras' Energy Deficiencies and Propensity to SARS-CoV-2 Infection, showing in this article that 90% of my patients studied between 2015 and 2020, are complete without energy in our massive internal organs, responsible for our lives and for our immunity. In another study whose title is Are We Vaccinating Immunocompetent or Immunocompromised People for COVID 19? I am saying that most people being vaccinated today are considered immunodepressed and not immunocompetent, as the changes are at the energy level, invisible to the naked eye [3,4].

In this study, I demonstrated that, regardless of the patient's type of diagnosis, regardless of age, all patients today are suffering from this problem, including our newborn babies, children, adolescents, young adults, and the elderly, as these changes are caused, among other problems, by exposure to electromagnetic radiation from 4G and 5G technologies and these radiations are widespread throughout the planet and affecting the majority of the world's population [3].

Therefore, the use of any type of treatment that makes this energy drop even more, which is altered at the root level, can complicate our patient, instead of treating him. According to the Arndt Schultz law, created in 1888 by two German scientists, they demonstrate that the use of any highly concentrated drug can cause this vital energy to fall and the patient can have a "stagnant energy flow" can cause heart attacks, myocardial infarction, stroke, and thrombosis anywhere in the body or even be lethal. This fact was described in the article recently written by me (2022) entitled Should Only Psychotropic Medication and Antibiotics be Controlled Use? And the Others? [11].

I recently heard from my dentist about an episode in his dental office in which, when injecting an anesthetic into a patient, to do his procedure, the patient developed an anxiety and panic crisis, instantly, and this problem was caused by the use of the anesthetic (considered highly concentrated medication), made the patient's vital energy drop, which was probably already low, according to previous studies carried out by me, causing another energy imbalance (formation of internal Fire), leading to anxiety and panic. These energy changes were explained by myself (2019) in the article Why Do Patients Still Have Anxiety Symptoms Despite the Use of Psychotropic Medications? [12].

Therefore, doctors who are attending an emergency unit should be aware of these changes in the energy level of our patients, and the drugs of choice for the treatment of our patients are considered highly diluted medications, to adapt to the new energy profile that almost the entire planet is nowadays characterized as low energy, caused by our modernization of the way we communicate. All this was important for us to be able to communicate with people all over the world, but we are paying a high price for it because our health is precarious (because we are immune deficient), our patients are aging quickly, and many are having gray hair before their time and young people are having diseases that only old people had in the past such as back pain, knee pain, heart attack, cancer, diabetes, etc. [5,6,13,15].

Not only are highly concentrated drugs doing harm to our population's health, but also highly concentrated vaccines have caused the same kind of damage, as was presented by me at the vaccine conference Sorganized by Scientific Wisdom on the Webinar on SARS-CoV-2 variants, that was held on . January 17, 2022, of a study whose title is Why Highly Diluted Oral Vaccine For COVID-19 Is the Safest Option in This Pandemic? [16].

The false idea that highly diluted drugs will not have a quick effect in an emergency unit must be promptly addressed. In the article recently written by me (2022) whose title is What do we Need to do to Avoid Intubation in Patients with Respiratory Failure Due to SARS-CoV-2 Infection? I am describing a story of a patient of about 60 years old who came to my office very sad saying that her parents were hospitalized in the hospital with SARS-CoV-2 infection and significant Lung involvement and low oxygenation. Their doctors told her that both parents would die because there was no treatment for that condition. What I told her to do so her parents would not die was to give them the medicines she was taking to treat the lack of energy in her massive internal organs using Phosphorus, Sulphur, Calcarea carbonica, Silicea, Natrum muriaticum to replenish the energy of these organs, according to the theory created by myself (2020) entitled Constitutional Homeopathy of the Five Elements Based on Traditional Chinese Medicine. These internal five massive organs (Liver, Heart, Spleen, Lungs, and Kidney) were responsible for the production of internal energy for maintaining our lives and all the metabolic processes of all the glands and organs of our body. After a week, after doing what was instructed, the patient came back to my clinic saying that her parents did not die, they normalized all the radiological alteration parameters and in the pulmonary oxygenation standard and that they were at home, living normally [10,17].

Therefore, following the commandments of Hippocrates (c. 460 bce - c. 375 bce), which says that "natural forces within us are the greatest healers of disease", has been proven in this little account [18].

Consequently, we need to broaden our horizons of vision when we are faced with a patient in need of help because their problems are only the "tip of an iceberg" and the real problem is the energy imbalances and deficiencies that are submerged in "the ocean floor". Treatment should be as much as possible using ways to treat without worsening the alterations in the "root of the tree" in the energy level, which is already very low and the use of highly concentrated medications has the power to cause this effect, reducing this energy and may cause some unwanted effects as a complication such as stroke, myocardial infarction, thrombosis, etc., or even death, due to the loss of this energy, which is vital for the maintenance of life [19-21].
