What is parenting?

The current definition of parenting is “Loving and Caring for Children”.

The new definition of parenting should be

When does parenting start?

Parenting does not start from the earthly birth of the child. Parenting starts from the womb-ly birth of the child i.e., from conception.

Strictly speaking all human beings have two stages of birth

First in the womb – a star is born in the womb.

Secondly, on the earth - the birth of the child from the mother’s womb on the earth.

One would be wondering if the child is just a blob of cells (at conception) who cannot see and cannot hear - how can parenting start from conception. The answer is – yes, it can. How?

At conception, parents have a bigger role in parenting than after birth on earth i.e., transmitting God’s energy to the sperm, egg and the blob of cells after fertilization by worship, prayer and meditation (WPM). This helps to download a higher level of mind and higher level of soul to the newly created human being.

At conception, parents also have a bigger role to modulate DNA by Electromagnetic Energy of Human Mind acquired through WPM – that’s the Biochemistry of Parenting (Figure 2) While the genetic engineering by the human is called CRISPR, the genetic engineering by the Electromagnetic Energy of Human Mind is called Theogenetics.

How Parents can acquire God’s Energy?

Parents are like Solar Cells. Just as a solar cell acquires energy from the sun, converts it to electrical energy and distributes that energy during darkness to provide light, similarly parents should acquire energy from God by WPM, converts it to EME of mind and distribute that energy to their children (Physics of Parenting) for maintaining good health, and good mind and to improve their performance at home, school, and workplace.

How Parents can transmit God’s energy to the children?

Parents are like Television Transmitters. Just as a television transmitter transmits electromagnetic energy to the consumer, similarly parents should transmit God’s energy to their children (Physics of Parenting) via EME of the mind through the pathway of giving blessing – another example of Physics of Parenting (Figure 4 and Figure 5).

How Children can receive God’s energy from the parents?

Children are like Television Receivers. Just as a customer’s television set has a receiver to capture electromagnetic energy transmitted by the television transmitter, similarly children should have receivers to capture God’s energy transmitted by their parents through EME of the mind.

The receiver of the television set in the past consisted of rabbit ears antennae, which was nothing but a metal rod. The children’s receiver to capture God’s energy from parents also consists of ROD, which is an acronym instead of the word “rod.” ROD stands for “Respect,” “Obedience,” and “Devotion.” The only way children can acquire God’s energy from their parents is through Respect, Obedience, and Devotion to their parents—provided parents are in constant touch with God (Figure 3). It is a two-way street, not a one-way street.

Role of EME of the mind on blessing

Blessing is nothing but transmission of EME of the mind from one person to another (example of Physics of Parenting), usually from an elder to a younger person.

The EME of the mind travels through nerves to the ends of the body—head, fingers, and toes.

The transmission of EME follows the principle of the Second Law of Thermodynamics, which states energy travels from a higher level to a lower level.

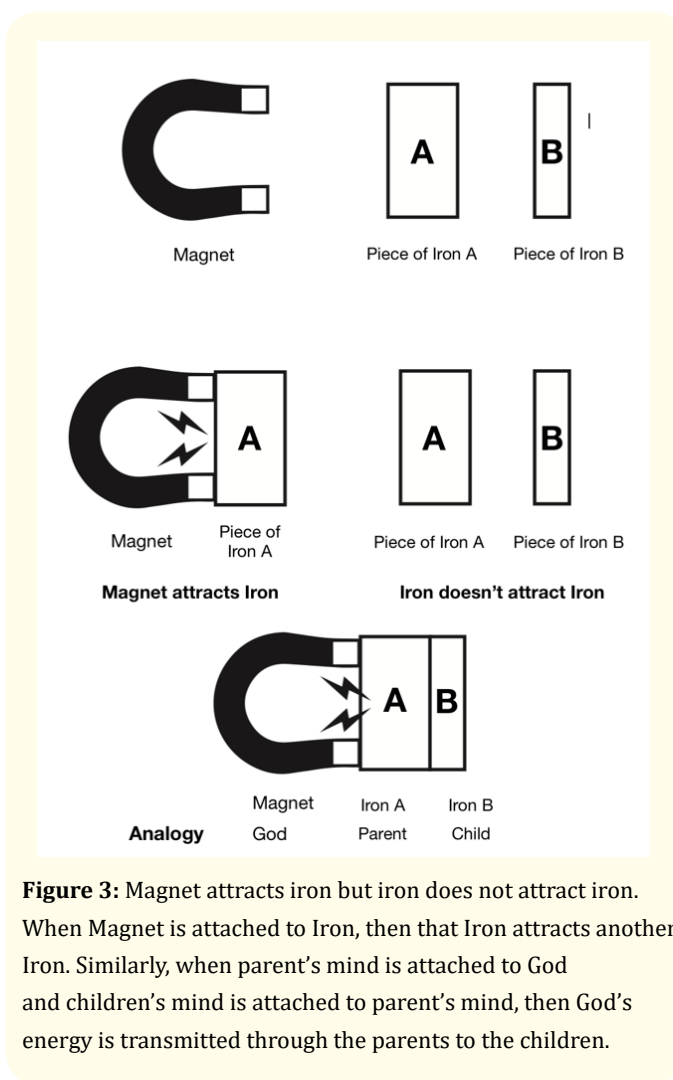

Figure 3: Magnet attracts iron but iron does not attract iron. When Magnet is attached to Iron, then that Iron attracts another Iron. Similarly, when parent’s mind is attached to God and children’s mind is attached to parent’s mind, then God’s energy is transmitted through the parents to the children.

The blessing is usually given by touching the fingers of the blesor on the head of the blessee because the fingers are at higher energy level than the head (Figure 4).

The blessing is usually received by the blessee by touching the toes of the blesor because the toes are at higher energy level than the fingers (Figure 5).

So the energy levels at different ends of the body are as follows:

Energy levels at Toes > Fingers > Head.

Figure 4: Shows the active method of giving blessing by the blessor and passive method of receiving blessing by the blesse – an example of Physics of Parenting.
